FIFTEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF WISCONSIN GRAND COUNCIL, U. C. T. BEGINS TODAY.

WELCOME IS EXTENDED

Major Fathers and Alexander Matheson Give Hearty Greeting in Behalf of Janesville—Big Day Tomorrow.

Delegates to the fifteenth annual convention of the Grand Council of Wisconsin, United Commercial Travelers, began their sessions today at the East Side I. O. O. F. hall with H. B. Richards, grand counselor of Milwaukee, presiding.

The first meeting was held at ten o'clock this morning, when the delegates and visitors, who had come to Janesville from all over the state, were welcomed by the local council and the local council had extended every effort to make the occasion one long to be remembered by the order. He bade the visitors to partake freely of Janesville's hospitality which is freely given.

Alexander E. Matheson also spoke a few words of welcome, dwelling particularly on the value of the fraternal side of the commercial travelers' order. He declared that Janesville had a great factor in the modern business world and was responsible for numerous important and significant reforms which have worked for the betterment of the social and business life of the state and nation.

Grand Counselor Richards graciously responded to the remarks of welcome. The members of the grand council were pleased to accept the hospitality which Janesville had so graciously and kindly extended, he declared, and he was sure that the present session would be one rich with pleasant associations.

H. B. Richards, grand counselor of Milwaukee, presiding, called attention to the fact that this was the silver jubilee of the order which was established just twenty-five years ago. He declared that he felt proud of the work which the order had accomplished through the work of the lodge in the past quarter of a century. It had done much for the social side of the traveling man's career and its membership had grown to mean much to every member.

The closing number of the morning program was the singing of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by C. W. Brown, with the choir, and the singing in the chorus. This is the official song of the grand council and every traveling man present sang with all the ardor and loyalty that only true fraternal spirit can inspire.

At the close of the public session, Counselor Richards announced that the grand council was now in session. The first official meeting was held this afternoon at which the principal matters of business was the roll.

JAPANESE MINISTER MEETS WITH WILSON TO DISCUSS PROTEST

President Arranges for Conference Following Latest Note Received From Government at Tokio.

Washington, June 5.—President Wilson arranged a conference late today with Viscount Chinda, the ambassador from Japan, to discuss the protest against the California land law. It is the first time that the ambassador has availed himself of his privilege of addressing himself directly to the president.

It also was arranged that Secretary Bryan should confer with President Wilson before the ambassador is recalled, but it was not contemplated that he would be present later. Mr. Bryan will give to the president his views of Japan's rejoinder to the last note of the United States reiterating that the California law is a discrimination and in violation of the treaty of 1911, notwithstanding the disclaimer of the state department.

Japan's latest word in her protest against the California land law was before President Wilson today, waiting to be presented to the cabinet at its regular semi-weekly meeting tomorrow. It is more than probable that the cabinet will consider the rejoinder only in a preliminary way, as Secretary Bryan expects to leave the city tomorrow for a meeting for Pittsburgh to attend a banquet to George W. Guthrie, the newly appointed ambassador to Japan.

Viscount Chinda, Japanese ambassador, will also be a guest at the luncheon meeting for Pittsburgh to attend a banquet to George W. Guthrie, the newly appointed ambassador to Japan.

The next step in the negotiations is a reply to Japan's rejoinder. This is expected to take up the Tokyo government's reiterated contention that the Webb law is a contravention of the treaty of 1911 derogatory to the equal treatment which Japan expects under international law and therefore a racial and national discrimination. The whole tone of the Japanese note inviting further negotiations upon the controversial points impressed official Washington more than favorably.

On the California land law, Japan's latest note before a conference with Ambassador Chinda, President Wilson today expressed a view that the new "very interesting and friendly negotiations."

CONGRESS DEBATES ON TARIFF MEASURE

Many Arguments Pro and Con Are Heard as to the Outcome.

Washington, June 5.—Reforms designed to systematize the methods by which appropriations bills are run up to the billion dollar mark are framed and presented to the house were taken up today at a meeting of the house budget committee.

Representative Underwood of Alabama, the committee's leader, chairman of Pennsylvania, democratic caucus chairman, Fitzgerald of New York, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Sherley of Kentucky one of the original budget reform advocates had agreed to choose between the Fitzgerald and Sherley plans of budget reform. These are:

Fitzgerald plan: Add to the membership of the appropriation committee four members of the military, foreign and all other committees that report appropriation bill so as to bring back to the appropriation committee the exclusive jurisdiction and minority members to be added to serve the political proportions of the committee. The committees to be prohibited from appropriating for anything not already authorized.

Sherley plan: Budget committee to regulate appropriations to consist of the four men at the top of the membership list of the ways and means committee. Four at the top of the appropriations committee, two at the top of the rules committee and chairman of each of the other appropriating committees with one minority member from each of all those committees.

Democratic senators declare today they would let the ill-fated sundry civil appropriation bill die, before yielding to the house plan, the house that the membership of boards of governors of soldiers' homes be reduced.

Vetoed by former Pres. Taft and left unacted upon by the last congress, President Wilson's bill has left whether to approve its most discussed provision to exempt farmers' organizations and labor union from prosecution under the Sherman law. The bill provides that if a highway is built, the state or federal government shall not be liable for damages to property shall not entitle any other owner to recover land through a wrong survey.

The senate committee on state affairs gave a hearing to the Richardsons bill increasing the amount of allowance for the working out of taxes on highways. Assemblyman Dolan appeared before the senate judiciary committee in favor of the Heden bill which provides that if a highway is built, the state or federal government shall not be liable for damages to property shall not entitle any other owner to recover land through a wrong survey.

HUNTER OUTSTARVES 11 WOLVES IN DEN

Wolf Hunter Goes Four Days Without Food, Captured Eleven Wolves as They Emerged From Den.

La Crosse, June 5.—Outstaring a band of eleven wolves by lying in constant vigil outside the entrance to their den for four days and four nights, Owen Hughes, a hunter, yesterday had his vigil rewarded by hunger, made a dash from their refuge and were killed one by one. Hughes, who is a professional hunter, was almost exhausted after his trial of endurance and he looked as cadaverous as his spoils as he made his way into town, climbed feebly up the high steps to the court house and into a chair as he presented his proof.

"No I ain't sick gentlemen," he said, waving away clerks who offered him assistance. "I've been on a hunger strike, and I want to say the strike is called off."

"I don't think I could have stood it much longer, but I was determined not to let those wolves outstay me," said Hughes, who concluded his story by grasping his precocious and moved as fast as his weakness would permit to a restaurant in the next block.

REPORTS IN FAVOR OF NEW AMENDMENT WANTS REGULATION INSTALMENT HOUSES

Senate Committee on Corporations Recommends Bill Which Would Destroy Defense of Contributory Negligence.

Madison, Wis., June 5.—Without a dissenting vote the senate committee on corporations reported the workmen's compensation bill for passage in the senate last night. One amendment was made in the bill clearing up one of the insurance features. This amendment was suggested by William A. Fricke of Wausau and was approved by the committee.

There was so little opposition to the bill when it was given a hearing before the senate committee that it will probably be enacted without much opposition.

The bill destroying the defense of contributory negligence, places all employers of more than four persons under the law unless they shall elect to stay out and fixes specific amounts for complete or extended indemnities. The committee recommended the Scott bill giving the railroad commission power to issue mortgage certificates to complete or extend the service of its plant, when the city bonding limit has been reached.

The Manning home rule bill was not acted upon by the committee. The measure applies to the city of Milwaukee and legal objections have been raised which will be investigated by the committee before reporting it.

The bill giving the attorney general further power in the prosecution of true and unconfessed crimes, defines more completely what are unfair combinations in restraint of trade was given a hearing by the senate judiciary committee yesterday afternoon. Attorney General Walter C. Owen and Deputy Attorney General Walter Drew favored the measure. Mr. Drew said that the bill would reach gentlemen's agreements made by ice, coal and other concerns and would give the state power to break up those combinations. There was no opposition to the measure.

The senate committee on state affairs gave a hearing to the Richardsons bill increasing the amount of allowance for the working out of taxes on highways. Assemblyman Dolan appeared before the senate judiciary committee in favor of the Heden bill which provides that if a highway is built, the state or federal government shall not be liable for damages to property shall not entitle any other owner to recover land through a wrong survey.

The assembly today advanced to third reading the bill creating a sewerage commission for the city of Milwaukee, whose object shall be the construction of a sewerage disposal work at an estimated cost of from fifteen to twenty million dollars. As amended the bill provides that the plant shall not be located within one quarter of a mile from any religious or charitable institution.

The assembly non-concurred in the bill prohibiting persons interested directly or indirectly in liquor business from holding office. The Hurlbut appropriation bill of $75,000 for special state aid to high schools for maintaining courses in manual training, domestic economy and agriculture was passed. The assembly concurred in the True bill merging the duties of the state park board with the board of forestry.

Boston, June 5.—The defense of Frederick E. Atteaux, dye manufacturer, the last of the three defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial in the superior court of Suffolk county, was given yesterday. Noyes Raessler Will Carry On Field Work Under Direction of University Agronomy Department.
The Agronomy Department of the University of Wisconsin has appointed Noyes R. Raessler, of Beloit, to carry on the work of field inspection during the coming season.
Rock County farmers who are members of the Agricultural Experimental Association are very fortunate in getting their fields of pure bred grains inspected by a man who has proven himself to be an expert in growing practically all of the small grain crops as well as corn. As Mr. Raessler has won the distinction of producing the best rye in the world, the best oats and what in Wisconsin and the sweetest barley at the La Crosse Barley show, he is in a position to give some very valuable instruction to the farmers along the line of growing better grain crops.
The principal duties of the farm inspector are to prevent the spread of dangerous weeds and diseases in our grain which is sold for seed, by calling the attention of the farmers to their presence wherever they are found and by giving them the simple and effective methods of their eradication and prevention.
The proper methods of handling and grading grain to be sold for seed will be explained to the farmers at this time. Those who have soils which do not respond readily to ordinary cultivation, will find the field inspector always willing to help them find the source of this trouble and correct it.
Mr. Raessler's work at the University together with several years' experience in the seed grain business, and in the handling of nearly all the different soils through Rock County, has fitted him exceptionally well for the work of farm inspection.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 5.—A bill to appropriate $5,000 to John A. Aylward and Michael B. Olbrich, Madison attorneys, who represented Insurance Commissioner Ekern in his controversy with Governor McGovern, came into the senate last night. Senator Bosshard sponsored it. The bill requires that the attorneys should be "fully compensated." It is said that Ekern feels he was unnecessarily put to expense by the action of the governor in summarily seeking to remove him.
The Hedding boxing bill, proposing state regulation of bouts by a commission, received a favorable report from the senate judiciary committee last night, only Senator Tompkins or Ashland dissenting. The bill passed the lower house last week. At the hearing yesterday afternoon, Assemblyman Hedding and Harry J. Killien of Milwaukee, spoke for it briefly. While its opponents failed to appear. Bill to compensate Ekern's attorneys
Senator Bosshard would have state pay $5,000 to Aylward and Olbrich—Various other matters.
[Special to the Gazette.]
Madison, Wis., June 5.—A bill to appropriate $5,000 to John A. Aylward and Michael B. Olbrich, Madison attorneys, who represented Insurance Commissioner Ekern in his controversy with Governor McGovern, came into the senate last night. Senator Bosshard sponsored it. The bill requires that the attorneys should be "fully compensated." It is said that Ekern feels he was unnecessarily put to expense by the action of the governor in summarily seeking to remove him.
The Hedding boxing bill, proposing state regulation of bouts by a commission, received a favorable report from the senate judiciary committee last night, only Senator Tompkins or Ashland dissenting. The bill passed the lower house last week. At the hearing yesterday afternoon, Assemblyman Hedding and Harry J. Killien of Milwaukee, spoke for it briefly. While its opponents failed to appear. The assembly ordered to third reading and then passed under suspension of the rules. Senator Linley's bill declaring houses of ill fame "nuisances" and authorizing their abatement for any uses for a period of one year. The circuit court bill fathered by

GINK AND DINK. THE BOSS HAD SOME COMEBACK.

Tough luck for Washington; first called the Climbbers, but now the Sliders. Gandill is playing with a lame leg; Laporte has an injured foot; Morgan is nursing a spiked wrist, and the pitchers are most liberal with passes. And to top it all, Johnson has lost two games.

Schang, Mack's young catcher, is the fastest stopper in the majors. He is also a hard hitting, left-handed batter, death on fouls, and throws to bases with tremendous speed.

Clark Griffith, his so bad off for material that he has gone so far as letting Germany Schaefer and Nick Altrock into the game. However, the comedians, becoming suddenly serious, surprised Griffith by their sterling work. They surprised the whole baseball world for that matter.

Clark Griffith is so bad off for Jimmy Ferry is eminent testimony that Ed McGowan did not frighten him out of his punch, if he did scare him into a defeat.

When a college will send its track team from one of the country to the other it only goes to show what college spirit there must be in some western universities, notably the University of California.

Few families in New England can boast of such pitching talent among themselves as the Whites. Charley White worked in the box for Boston, Dave White, now pitching for Georgetown, has signed with the Giants. Steve twirled for Exeter, Princeton, Red Sox and the Braves. Dr. White was on the mound for Boston college.

Christy Mathewson does not believe in the continual use of the spitball, but he throws it occasionally. He has been known to hurl the most delivery to Honus Wagner and the other day he slipped one to Finkler—it isn't much of a spitter—that is, he doesn't take him a week to prepare it, but it has a sharp break on it which goes far toward puzzling the opposing sluggers.

When George Sisler, the star south-paw of the University of Michigan, finally lands on the Pittsburgh roster it would be no unusual sight to see him playing in the outfield when he is not working in the box. Sisler is a wonderful hitter and probably the first youngster who has broken in the big leagues for some time who defies the old adage of a pitcher being unable to hit.

Now that Rollie Zeider is assured of a regular job at the second cushion for New York it would not be strange to see him pushing both Collins and Larry for fielding honors. Zeider always was uncanny in the matter of killing off base hits. It was only his stick work which kept him out of the White Sox line-up.

It is said that Michigan would have taken second and probably first if Jimmie Craig, sprinter, and brother of the famous Ralph, had not been laid low by a tackle last fall which prevented him from competing in the intercollegiate meet at Cambridge Saturday. Jimmie is fully as fast as his brother and would easily have copped the low hurdles and places in the sprints.

HUSKY WELLESLEY SOPHS AT OARS BREAK LAKE WATER RECORD

The first sophomore crew of Wellesley (Mass.) college has broken the record for the competition course on Lake Waban. This husky aggregation of girl athletes, shown in the picture, covered the 680 yards of the course in three minutes and nine seconds, which is eight seconds better than the old mark.

MODEST "BUD" ANDERSON AMBITIOUS TO BECOME THE CHAMPION OF LIGHTWEIGHTS

Arthur J. (Bud) Anderson.

Arthur J. (Bud) Anderson, the coast lightweight, whose latest victory was over Joe Mandot, is said to be a very shrinking violet so far as publicity is concerned, but he is nevertheless ambitious to become a real champion. It looks as if he would give Willie Ritchie a run for his money.

The new ring sensation is twenty-five years old, has been fighting for three years and has had forty-two fights. He's never yet had a decision rendered against him. Anderson has thirty knockouts, seven draws and five decisions to his credit. Besides Joe Mandot he has numbered among his victims Sammy Trotter and "Knockout" Brown.

HAROLD HILTON IS GOLF CHAMP AGAIN

Harold Hilton.

Harold Hilton's regaining of the world's golf championship in England last week was not surprising. He is playing expert golf again this year and the "Americans" and Europeans alike were unable to cope with his game. This is Hilton's fourth term as golf champion.

Amusements.

VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM.
The Myers theatre reopened this afternoon with a vaudeville program of acts that should pack the theatre to the doors for the four nights engagement. Every number on the program is high class and Manager Myers is to be congratulated on securing the following artists to appear here this week, namely Paxton and the Saxon Sisters eccentric singing and dancing, Mullin Sisters musical act, Logan and Perrie the Two War Dogs, and the Famous Nichols-Nelson troupe of hoop jugglers and Diabolo spinners. This is beyond any question the highest salaried vaudeville entertainment that has ever been presented in Janesville and Manager Myers is entitled to the most liberal patronage during the four days' engagement.

STATE LEAGUE TEAMS TO CLASH SATURDAY

Madison Wisconsin-Illinois League Team to Play Winner of La Crosse-Green Bay Game.

Two crack ball games have been arranged by the local committee in charge of the U. C. T. convention, for the benefit of the visitors and the three teams from two of the state leagues are to cross bats at the driving park Saturday afternoon and morning.

Saturday morning the La Crosse team, from the Minnesota-Wisconsin league and the Green Bay team from the Wisconsin-Illinois association, are to fight it out for league honors. The Green Bay nine are in third place in their league but of late have been playing the best ball of any of the eight games, having just finished a winning streak of nine straight games. Both teams will put their best slab artists on the mound in hopes of showing that their respective associations is superior.

In the afternoon the Madison nine of the Wisconsin-Illinois league are to fight it out with the winners and one of the hardest fought contests ever held in this city is anticipated. Janesville fans will be especially interested in the outcome of this game as Thomas Butters of this city is on the Madison pitching staff and will undoubtedly be sent in to oppose the Green Bay nine. Butters has played ball in this city for the last five years and has pitched the Parker-Pen company nine to many of their victories. His habit of winning games attracted the attention of the Madison manager and he was signed up last year and reported for work this season. "Cud" was sent in against the Wausau team last week but lost. His lack of control has caused him great trouble but the Madison team's captain holds that he will improve with coaching and experience.

H. H. BLISS,
 Mgr.
 Subscribed and sworn to before me

 (Seal) OLIVE M. HAYWARD,
 My commission expires July 12, 1914.

THE SPECIAL ELECTION.

The special election, soon to be called, is a compromise to satisfy the recallers, and the result will determine whether Mayor James A. Fathers shall be continued in office or whether he shall be succeeded by some aspiring candidate whose name shall be brought out at a primary election.

This primary election, if demanded,
 will be of no interest to Mayor Fathers, or the men who are satisfied with his administration, as Mr. Fathers, by virtue of his office, is already nominated. The dissatisfied element are the only men interested in a primary election, and it is for them to determine who their candidate will be.

The commission form of government has now been in force for little more than a year. To say that it has more than met the expectations of its most ardent supporters, is but to admit a self-evident fact, and it is safe to assume that public sentiment very largely endorses the plan today.

The city government, for the first time in its history, is free from politics, and this fact alone means a long stride forward. All kinds of public improvements are unhindered because there is no ward constituency
 to censure, or no ward official to consult. This means a community of interests which is most desirable.

The feeling of good fellowship,
 which has come to the surface, and is rapidly developing, is due in great measure to the changed conditions which have resulted from the new form of government, and this spirit
 will soon become the prevailing spirit,
 for the fact is recognized, as never before, that public welfare and private interests are so closely allied that they can not be separated.

The booster movement, just now so popular, is the outgrowth of good fellowship, and the common everyday people, so largely in the majority, find an opportunity for expression and practical work, along the lines of public welfare.

The commission form of government is giving the city a business administration. The office of the city officials is a wide, open-door office, accessible to all citizens, where grievances may be discussed and adjusted.

Mayor Fath-ers and his two associates were elected by popular vote, and they have made good. The fact should not be overlooked that the changes brought about by abolishing
 the old ward system and establishing the new form of government, were radical.

Revolutions resulting have effected some interests, and restrictions, for the public good, have caused some grievances, but this is no reason why a public official, faithfully striving to perform his duty, should be removed from office.

The election soon to be held will determine whether this kind of an official is to be sacrificed without cause. The Gazette is of the opinion that Mayor Fath-ers will be vindicated
 by a strong endorsement.

THE SEVENTEENTH AMEND-

MENT.
 According to the Christian Science Monitor, Secretary Bryan, in part because of his own relation to the modification of the constitution registered in the latest amendment, hastens to say that its enactment and formal declaration mark the most significant change in the American democratic government of government governed by people in many generations. He seems to us not far from right, especially if this particular detail of change be interpreted as only one of many signs of a reaction against party authority
 as formerly registered in state legislatures as well as in state partisan conventions. The fight against chat-tel slavery of the negro and the war for preservation of the Union finally were registered in organic law, in the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. To make them an enormous amount of treasure, human and monetary, first had to be spent.

In connection with this latest addition to the organic law there is no toll of lives to be reckoned with.
 But it does represent a very persistent struggle covering many generations, to make the senate a much more responsive agent of the will of the majority. To win the fight advocates of the change had to overcome not only the inherent difficulties of constitutional amendment, but the feelings of awe cherished by many citizens for the original constitution as an infallible document. If the new method of direct election of senators by the people instead of by state legislatures has at last been authorized by two thirds of the states, it has been due largely to the baneful effects
 upon state legislatures of their duties as choosers of senators, and due also to the obstructive, reactionary record of the United States senate during the past generation while the people have been fighting against plutocracy.
 Theoretical argument for the change
 has been set forth ably; but the practical, pernicious results of the old system, carried on by party bosses and manipulated by them, have finally caused the democratization of the senate.

A DAIRY FARMSTEAD.

A beautiful art drawing, entitled
 "My Farm," has just been brought out by Hoard's Dairyman of Fort Atkinson. The picture is not only a work of art but it represents in statistical form the average of sixty-five thousand dairy farms scattered over seven western states, many of them located in Wisconsin.

These statistics have been carefully compiled by the publishers of the "Dairyman," and are very significant in that they demonstrate that the dairy farmer ranks high in the world of finance. The following figures show the size, value and income of the average farm in this list of sixty-five thousand.

"Size of farm, 167 acres.
 "Value of farm, $17,027.
 "Value of domestic animals, $2,254.
 "Income from sale surplus stock, $653.
 "Value of all crops, $2,323.

 The drawing contains many other statistics of interest, and is well worth a careful study because it is a picture from real life and not a product of imagination. It should inspire in the hearts of the new generation, ambition to stay by the farm. If you are interested, ask Hoard's Dairyman for a copy of the picture and you will think so much of it that you will want to frame it for the parlor.

Maybe Janesville did not get the state fair location, but it demonstrated one thing and that is that Janesville united can accomplish wonders and the spirit awakened by the attempt to influence the legislators to a favorable view of Janesville's claims is going to keep on growing until it overshadows everything else in the civic life. The booster spirit is rampant just now.

Perhaps before he gets through President Wilson will have discovered that the big interests of the country really are a factor to be considered and that what one learns in book is not always practical in business life.

The Knights of the Grip have taken possession of the city and Janesville extends a formal welcome as well as the key to the city.

This week's celebration is almost as good as a Fourth of July demonstration even if it does come in June instead of July.

It is a case of boost and boost with care and boost everywhere these piggey days of peace.

Heart to Heart

Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE NEW GOSPEL.

The new gospel is one of joy, of building and of brotherhood, one of life, of health and of success. It has the confidence of faith, the charity of love, the buoyancy of hope, the catholicity of belief in God and man. It is Americanism grown into an outlook and a habit of thought. It is the child of intelligence married to accomplishment. It is the creed of those who do things. It has the attitude of knowledge and of mastery. It believes a man will be what he wills to be. It asserts that character is more than circumstance; that environment which is adamant before weakness is fluid before strength, purpose and work. It preaches individual responsibility and social co-operation. It has faith that the inner world can shape the outer;
 that mind is the lord of matter. It stands for the positive, proclaiming that good banishes evil, truth vanquishes error, health overcomes sickness and success dispels failure in the same way that light excludes darkness.

It adopts the Master's method of resisting, not evil, which is a negative thing, but of overcoming evil with good, which is positive. It affirms truth rather than denies error.

There is a species of oak on which the dead leaves cling all winter and are pushed off by the new leaves in the spring. So old errors are pushed aside and fall at the appearance of new truths. Supplant the wrong with the right. Affirm all positive qualities,
 such as good, truth, beauty, health,
 knowledge, sanity and faith, and their negations of evil, error, ugliness, disease, ignorance, delusion and doubt,
 will drop away of themselves.

The new gospel is not one of theory,
 but of practice. It is for use, for service, for application. It proves itself by its fruits. Believing that God is good,
 that he is true, that he is whole, it would have men become like God by expressing these positive virtues. It holds that all things are good except in the use and the thought of man.

Evil may be but a lack of the fullness of good, or in human deeds evil may be misplaced action, just as dirt is misplaced matter.

The new gospel is not only for one day of the week, but for all days. It finds its temple under every roof and in all open spaces. It is not alone for one sect or one order or one race of men, but for all sects, all orders, all races of men. It denies not the divinity of the one, but affirms the divinity of the all. It is a whole gospel, an equal gospel. It exalts the common life. It is democratic, progressive, constructive. In a word, it is optimistic.

The new gospel believes in the wholesomeness of humor. It holds that a smile is sunshine and a laugh is medicine. Humor laughs at the incongruous and therefore at evil and error, for these are incongruities. There is a philosophy here that Lincoln and Franklin taught and that the world is just now learning. Humor can cure more things than we have yet dreamed, can laugh away pretense, hypocricy, falsehood, posing, weakness, fallacy and other false things that, being false, are light enough to be blown away by a gale of laughter.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
 There is only one way to cure deafness,
 and that is by constitutional remedies.
 Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear, which is not hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflamed membrane can be taken from the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine out of ten cases are caused by Catarrh,
 which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness cured by our method. Send for circulars free.

PASTOR IS CHARGED

WITH SERIOUS CRIME

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie Arraigned

in Plainfield, New Jersey Court

on Accusation of Girl

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Plainfield, N. J., June 5.—Rev.
 Willis S. MacRorie, formerly pastor of a Methodist church at Mt. Horeb, MacRorie had in court today for trial
 on an indictment recently returned against him on charges made by a young woman who was a member of his congregation. Rev. MacRorie was first arrested on November 22 of last year as a result of a complaint made by Mrs. Amelia Mason, mother of nineteen-year-old Gertrude Mason, a singer in the Mt. Horeb church. The pastor admitted at that time that he had taken the young woman on numerous automobile rides, but blamed his arrest to the influence of liquor dealers against whom he had been active.

The grand jury at that time failed to indict the accused minister, but charges made by two other ministers became a matter for consideration at the Newark conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Newark last March by a special committee. Mr.
 MacRorie had resigned his pastorate
 in the meantime. The conference committee that probed the case reported to the conference that the charges were not sustained. Notwithstanding the finding of the committee, the grand jury again took the matter up, with the result that the former minister was indicted and must stand trial on serious charges made by the young woman in the case.

FRIDAY'S PARADE IS TO BE BIG-FEATURE

turing and retail firms having notified him they would have displays out. Captain Moore will act as assistant to Mr. Fish in organizing the parade and handling it during the line of march. This feature of the day's celebration will fall in line directly behind the council of the U. C. T. and will be headed by a band, which one not having yet been decided upon. It is placed in the rear of the traveling men in order to give them an opportunity to view it after they have completed their line of march and should prove a most interesting feature.

Industrial Pageant.
Mr. Fish will not tell all the surprises that are to be exhibited on the various floats but promises that it will surpass any previous industrial parade that Janesville has had and it does it will mean that it will be a handsome one as Janesville is noted for its industrial floats in Fourth of July parades. Business men have entered into the spirit of the affair and bunting, the colors of the U. C. T. is at a premium for decorating purposes, a half carload being expected to arrive sometime today to meet the increased demand.

Place of Meeting.
The industrial floats will form in procession on Park street in the rear of the Lewis Knitting company's factory and will join the main parade at Main street.
Agents Alva Hennings of the Northwestern road and F. W. Zimmerman of the St. Paul company announced today that their freight office will close at twelve o'clock tomorrow morning in order to give their employees an opportunity to assist in the industrial parade. Most of the factories will follow suit.

At Four O'clock.
The parade will start promptly at four o'clock and it is estimated that there will be between fifteen and eighteen marchers and persons on floats in the procession which will reach from South Main street to Academy street and half way back again. If past parades of the order in other cities is any criterion, Madison comes with a band, Milwaukee brings a band, Marshfield has its own musicians and Oshkosh will be in line with its band. Aside from this the Racine council has three Scotch pipers who will render their weird music, an added feature. It is also rumored that an amateur drum corps will be in line composed of members of the order who have had musical training.

The fifty members of the Twenty Five Thousand club, in the Boosters marching club will head the civic feature and the men will be garbed in tasteful uniforms.

The program for the remaining two days is as follows:

8:30 A. M. to 10:30 A. M. Reception committee receiving Brothers and ladies on incoming trains.

9:00 A. M. Session of Grand Council, I. O. O. F. hall.

4:00 P. M. Parade.

7:30 Band concert in Court House Park.

8:30 Concert and ball at Assembly hall.

Saturday, June 7, 1913.

9:00 A. M. Session of Grand Council.

New York, June 5.—The extraordinary variety of styles from which one may choose this season, whatever comes nearest to fitting the temperament as well as one's figure, is positively astonishing. Many of the styles are exceedingly charming if worn by the right persons, others are more odd than beautiful and can be worn successfully only by few women, and finally there are a few styles which, even under the most favorable conditions, are simply hideous. The Oriental note is particularly conspicuous at the present time. The gorgeous effects borrowed from Persian and East Indian costumes are holding their own in the face of the approaching summer, when they might reasonably be expected to disappear.

Beads and bugles and pearls and rhinestones are used in ornamenting the most elaborate summer evening costumes quite as much as they were during the winter. Wonderful chiffons and tulle embroidered in these brilliant effects are still to be seen, while pearls are used on many of the simpler frocks.

Elaborate lingerie dresses this season are almost exclusively of embroidered batiste combined with real laces of the heavier varieties, such as coarse net, Cluny Venise and Alencon. Or they are of net with shadow lace or other fine weaves combined with the embroidered batiste. English eyelid embroidery, which early in the season appeared to have suffered a set-back has been coming into favor again in Paris and here. It is now shown more frequently in batiste than in linen and is elaborately embroidered as well as "eyelid."

Among the most striking novelties of the season are waistcoats, which appear in many extremely odd and not always artistic variations. There is the "gilet-Prud'homme" for example, which has created quite a sensation in Paris. A vest of the most ample dimensions is this particular "gilet." Arrayed in it, even a slender woman looks bulky. The waistcoat makes not the slightest pretension to fit. Made of white pique, with the usual masculine supply of pockets and fastened with pearl buttons, it looks precisely like the general waistcoats worn by our great-grandfathers. Another rather interesting waistcoat has been originated by Yagou. It is not really a separate garment, but is applied on to the dress, or the coat itself. This fake waistcoat is grown out of all resemblance to the traditional feminine vestee. It reaches out to the shoulders at the top and extends twelve or fourteen inches below the waistline. It is generally in brilliant brocaded silk contrasting sharply with the dark material of the suit upon which it is applied. Much more attractive and really graceful are some of the big loose waistcoats in white corded silk, with very wide revers and collar which are worn outside the coat itself. In one of these striking costumes the waistcoat is confined by a belt, over which it blouses and below which it extends in two deep rounded points. This one does not button, the revers crossing each other and fastening under the belt. But in most instances, these garments afford a chance for a good deal of originality in the selection of buttons and other ornamental trimmings.

These extremely ample white waistcoats, which are especially good with long cutaway coats that do not fasten in front, have not gained much of a following in this country as yet. They are too new. But they are sure to be adopted by young women of a certain type; the type that goes in for outdoor sports and is seen about dressing the part.

Plaiting is becoming more in vogue all the time. It is indicated on the Bulgarian or Russian blouse, where the plaits are at least as fluted and appear as if they had lately been tight knife plaits.

In many evening frocks for young women flowers are worked in heavy wool, then cherries or roses done to fall separately. The effect is pretty but, to say the least, impractical and inconsistent. This idea was originated about a year ago. It died a natural death in Autumn, and now, with the approach of the summer, has returned the designs have been enlarged, and in most instances the flowers or fruit depend from the goods. White is a favorite background for these gaily colored bunches, but one sees materials in cream and other delicate tints with designs hanging.

Tan linen suits of heavy quality are made most serviceable, as well as smarter looking, when they show bindings of wide brown silk braid. The suit with cutaway coat, showing two horizontal stripes of the braid on the skirt—one at the left side front and the other at the right side back. The coat is bound down the front and about the bottom with the braid and the collar and cuffs are likewise bound with a braid. Large round glass buttons of brown and yellow are used for buttoning the coat and trimming the skirt.

The separate coat is to be worn this summer in many fashions. For summer wear the separate coat is such a convenience that although it may be out of evidence for a season or so it is bound to come back before long. For outing wear the separate coat is still popular with young girls. Coats of eponge reaching well below the hips, cut on straight lines, buttoned with big bone buttons, with breast pocket, and long sleeves, are also worn for sports.

There are longer coats of various thin cloths for boating and walking and motoring, amde double-breasted, buttoning over the chest, with long, wide sleeves, and big pockets at the sides. The old covert cloth coat made on strictly tailored lines are also in evidence, and although not so becoming as some of the more elaborate afternoon coats are always serviceable and smart. Hip length cut away coats of matelasse and silk poplin and other silk fabrics are worn with afternoon frocks. Linen coats are worn with separate linen skirts; for instance, a blue linen Norfolk is worn with a white linen skirt. This same idea for separate coats is demonstrated in the gowns made with black satin skirt and colored silk or satin coat which are seen in the hotels at the tea hour.

Plain line waists are apparently to be much worn with coat suits for warm weather. One of heavy linen, made with turnback collar and cuffs which show a similar embroidered design—an eyelid flanked by two heavy leaves—worked at intervals of about an inch in heavy embroidery cotton. The collar and cuffs are edged with narrow Irish picot lace edge. A small pocket is applied to the left front. Like the collar and cuffs, is embroidered and edged with picot.

Some of the shops show lingerie made of nainsook embroidered in the Philippine Islands by the native women. This lingerie is less expensive than that embroidered in France and is sheer and dainty. According to some authorities on the subject, it bids fair to gain popularity among women who like hand-embroidered underwear, but do not feel able to pay the high prices charged for that of French make.

DECORATIONS GIVEN SPECIAL ATTENTION

Junior Class Does Artistic Work in Trimming High School Gymnasium for Commencement.

Members of the high school junior class have done some artistic work in decorating the high school gymnasium for commencement exercises next week. Work was begun last Saturday and now nearly completed except for a few finishing touches. The entire auditorium is aglow with gold and black, the colors of the senior class. Magnificent costumes will be worn by the girls, and every attempt will be made to have this year's pageant a big thing. Miss Genevieve McGinley, the May Queen, will be garbed in a gown of original design, and her attendants will also appear in especially designed costumes.

Other preparations for graduation are being carried on during the present week. Pageant practice is being held daily. Miss Hill is finding little trouble in training the young ladies, because they are accustomed to this kind of work. The students expect a huge success this year in the annual May festival. The May pole dance will be given as usual, with the addition of perhaps twenty more girls than in past years' fete. Magnificent costumes will be worn by the girls, and every attempt will be made to have this year's pageant a big thing. Miss Genevieve McGinley, the May Queen, will be garbed in a gown of original design, and her attendants will also appear in especially designed costumes.

More decorations have been placed in the main room of the high school to add to the attraction of the room. A shelf has recently been placed over the senior entrance door, and on this shelf is a row of all the trophy cups won by athletic and debating teams during the past year. Among the cups are the Beloit college debating cup and the Beloit college debating trophy won this year. The old Denmark cup and last year's basketball trophy are also placed here. The sheepskin won at Appleton is on the wall above the line of cups. It is hoped that sometime soon a large class case may be furnished for these cups.

Tells of Ellis Island. "After the band, what was the topic discussed by Miss Miriam Woodbury in an address to the high school students yesterday. She touched on some of the important problems of the nation, which are forcing the attention of the citizens generally. The matter of moving the new arrivals westward where they can be of most service to themselves and to the nation is one of the problems in handling the immigrants. Miss Woodbury gave a vivid description of some of the scenes which are enacted daily at this great port of entrance for foreigners.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

LIGHTNING.

By Howard L. Rann.

LIGHTNING is the business end of a thunderbolt and can penetrate farther than any other known illuminant. It has been known to cast its rays through the person of a ruminative milch cow and then bounce off onto a barbed wire fence and burn a large, white hole through a new red barn. No body but an electrician is able to play with lightning without being superseded by a card of thanks.

Lightning is caused by two thunderbolts coming together and uniting in a rear-end collision and throwing off long, jagged sparks, which are then allowed to take to the earth and annoy people who get in the way. After a person has stood in the pathway of one of these sparks once and had it come out through his hip pocket, he will not care whether the White Sox strikes twice in the same place. This being the case, people who have been struck once generally manage to see it coming first. A favorite point of attack for lightning is a decrepit dwelling which is insured for four times the value of the house and lot. Every year hundreds of aged barns are destroyed by lightning on bright moonlight nights, yielding enough revenue to put up a new structure and cement the cellar.

Lightning is always followed by a deep rumbling noise, which induces people who have their heads under the bedclothes that they are safe until the next collision. This noise is caused by water-logged clouds trying to buck each other off the right of way, and is very depressing to people whose accident insurance has expired.

The lightning rod is an ornamental spire which is attached to a house in the hope that lightning will find it before it gets to any of the immediate family. As this happens about once in twelve million times, people who put their trust in the lightning rod would do better to climb into the coal bin and try to think of some good deed done.

Pessimism of Mr. Mutchaw.
"It is a great pity," a trifle grimly remarked Stanley Livingston Mutchaw, who had several unappreciated Frankenstein's on his hands, a bolt on his neck and a grand grouch on his soul, "that some children are so sadly afflicted with bashfulness; and it is a still greater pity that others ain't. All I have observed that a brother-in-law never dies and seldom resigns. And I believe we are going to get this season a darn sight more zels than we need!"

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By
HARRY KING TOOTLE

Illustrations by
RAY WALTERS

Gloria could not have been stabbed by a more cruel reply.
"Ah, yes," she sighed, "but how?"
"That's up to you and yer pa."
Little Ella recognized that the boss was out of her sphere of influence.
"Yes, yes, I know. Tell me—does David Kerr," she spoke the name with an effort, "ever—come down here?"
"Him? Naw. We never see nothin' o' him." His daughter gave a sigh of relief. "We don't know nothin' 'bout him much. We don't see him, but we feel him. He lives alone, out in the country."

"Then can he really know?"
"He's a man, ain't he?" demanded the woman of the streets fiercely. "He knows, but what does he care? I wish he had a daughter."
"What's that?" Gloria asked. The manner in which Little Ella had spoken made her catch her breath with a feeling that was akin to dread. "I wish he had a daughter, an' that she'd have to suffer what we down here suffer."

Gloria held up her hand, bidding her cease from even thinking such a thing. "No, no, no, not that."
"Why not?" the other went on doggedly. "Could she be any better'n I was once? I tell you, I'd like to have a daughter of his here, and watch her struggle to keep the breath in her body."

"Have you no mercy?" begged Gloria.
"What mercy hev I had shown me by Noonan—cept fer his own profit? What mercy from David Kerr? Wouldn't he laugh to see a daughter o' his in this hell-hole?" Gloria convulsively covered her eyes with her hands as if to shut out even the thought of such a sight. Little Ella went on harshly, "What a joke it would be! But I'd laugh. I'd watch her, the little darling, to see that she paid the price as I've done."

Gloria could stand it no longer.

"Stop, you senseless girl! You make a mockery of pity and compassion. It's absurd to vent your rage upon something that doesn't exist. David Kerr has no daughter."
Little Ella accepted this answer without question, unmindful that a short while before her visitor had denied all knowledge of the man.

"I wish he had," she said regretfully.
A door slammed suddenly overhead.

"Aren't you afraid here alone?" Gloria asked.
"Naw. I ain't scared in the daytime, an' at night I'm out most o' the time."

The sound of a scuffle on the floor above brought both women to attention. There came a sudden, smothered cry for help which made Gloria's blood run cold. Then there was a heavy thud as if some one had been felled by a blow.

"What's it all about?" she cried, springing to her feet in terror.
"Nothin'. Stay where you are. We're safe as long as we don't open that door."

The sounds of the affray grew louder. Again came the cry for help.

"What's going on? I must know. Some one's in trouble. Didn't you hear some one call?"

"They're maybe just foolin'." Ella was listening intently. "Don't you butt in."

"But I can't stand here doing nothing. I must see what's the matter."

One could never accuse Gloria of lack of courage. She had never seen the horse she was afraid of, and a sailboat in a heavy sea made her laugh the more the louder the wind whistled through the rigging. Her feeling of personal power, inherited from her father, had been strongly developed. She had by this time overcome her first fear, and now she intended to know what the trouble was all about. Some one was in distress and to do what she could was her one thought as she started toward the door.

"Better not open that door," Little Ella pleaded.

Even as she spoke, they heard a door slam at the head of the stairs above. Some one lurched heavily to the stairway, and then to their horror—they knew it by the sound just as well as if the scene had been enacted before their eyes—the man tripped and plunged down the narrow stairs.

Gloria Felt for His Heart.

"I must know what's going on," Gloria cried.

She rushed across the room and wrenched open the door. At the foot of the stairway just before her was the body of a man, limp and motionless.

"It's a man. He's hurt," she called back to the sick woman as she knelt to examine him.

He had fallen so that she could not get a good look at him in the dark hallway, and she rolled him toward the door to get him on his back and see his face. As she gazed upon his countenance the fingers of death itself seemed to seize her by the throat. Her heart gave one great leap and then stood still. On the floor before her lay the body of the man she loved.

"Joel!" she screamed. "What are you doing here? Joe, Joe, speak to me!" But there was no answer. His eyes were closed, and the pallor of death seemed to be upon his face.

With strength beyond what she had ever known herself to possess, Gloria seized the motionless form and dragged and rolled the man into Little Ella's room. Before she turned to him again she closed and bolted the door. Then she bent over him and begged him to speak to her, to open his eyes and know that she was with him.

"Joe, don't you know me?" she pleaded. Then to Little Ella, "He's dead, he's dead. See, he doesn't move."

"Yes, he does," answered the other woman. She had been sitting up in bed, an excited spectator of all that had transpired. "He's breathin'! Hear open his shirt and feel his heart beat."

Wright was a pitiable object as he lay on the floor like one dead. His coat and waistcoat were gone, and his collar and cravat had been torn away. On his white shirt were bloody stains. Gloria felt his heart and was rewarded by its feeble beat. She next dashed water from the pitcher over his face, but without avail. He showed no signs of returning consciousness. From a wound just above his temple on the right side of his head the blood began to trickle down over his face, making his pallor all the more ghastly. She had no means of knowing how serious this was, and naturally came to the conclusion that it was a death-wound. There was only one thing to do: get a physician.

As she started to her feet she heard two men running down the stairs and making a search from room to room on her floor. These must be the men who had attacked him. She could not let him fall into their hands, and therefore she could not leave him to go for aid. The impotence of her position made her feel like screaming to relieve the nervous strain.

"What do you know about this? How did he come here? What has happened to him?"

"I dunno," answered the woman. "There's somethin' doin' all the time in this dump."

A sudden knock at the bolted door chilled Gloria with terror.

"What's that?" she whispered.

"Somebody's at the door," replied Little Ella, in the same low tone. This fact was obvious.

"They can't come in," Gloria continued.

Again came the knocking, louder and more insistent.

"I can't let anything happen to him," murmured the unhappy girl in agony, remembering how the day before she had demanded that he be punished. "Joe, Joe, what does it all mean?"

But Wright made no answer. He lay like a log as the girl he had loved bent over him, wiped the blood from his face, and brushed back his disheveled hair.

With the next knock came the voice of a man demanding entrance.

"Ella, Ella, open this door."

Gloria rushed over to the bed.

"Tell him you can't get out of bed, she implored in a whisper. "Tell him there's nobody here."

"I can't get out of bed. There's nobody here," Little Ella called.

This answer did not pacify the man.

"That's a lie," he shouted. "There's somebody in there or the door wouldn't be locked. Open this door, do you hear me, or I'll bust it down."

The tone of his voice made Gloria feel that he would make good his threat. There in the center of the room in full view lay the man whom they were seeking. Once they burst the single barrier they would be upon him, to do what further harm she knew not. It might be that he was now already beyond all human aid. He still breathed, however, and Gloria was willing to fight if there was even only one chance in his favor. Hence it would not do for them to find him, the minute they broke down the door. She must hide him somewhere to give her time to parley with his assailants. She looked vainly about for some place to put him.

"For God's sake, help me hide him," she beseeched. "I can't give him up. Where does that door lead to?" She pointed to the door close by the one which led into the hall.

"That's only a closet under the stairway," was Little Ella's whispered explanation. "They'd find him there in a minute."

"You wouldn't let them kill him, would you?"

"I can't help you. I'm so weak I can hardly turn over in bed."

"Open this door, I say," came from the man without as he pounded on the door ominously, "or I'll crack you over the head."

Gloria understood that there was no time to temporize. She must do something and that quickly. Close by where she stood next the bed, and on the side away from the door, was Little Ella's trunk. Behind it on hooks hung a number of garments, and on a chair were more clothes. It was the only chance and Gloria took it.

How she ever managed to get him, a dead weight, across the intervening space and safely stowed behind the trunk she never knew. She dragged, she hauled, she pulled, she rolled, and the forlorn hope that she would save him yet gave her strength. As she snatched skirts from the hooks and all the clothing from the chair to pile upon him, the pounding upon the door became more and more vindictive. The girl was out of breath, but as she bent over the prostrate form of the man she loved, she managed to gasp:

"Joe, listen to me. If you can hear me, dear, listen. Don't stir, don't you hear me, Joe?" But he was deaf to all entreaties. Seeing this was so, she turned to Little Ella: "Get him to go away. Offer him anything, promise him anything. I'll do it; only keep that man on the other side of that door."

"There's at least two of 'em."

"That doesn't matter—a thousand—it's all the same. Get them to go away."

This was easier said than done, but Little Ella was willing to make the effort.

"You get away from that door, an' leave me alone."

"Open this door, you she-devil," threatened the besieger, "or I'll—"

And then interrupted another voice with a suggestion that made Gloria grow faint.

"Aw! Let's bust it in. He's in there all right."

"Let 'er go," answered the first one.

If the man who scrubs your windows, for a little dough, toils like forty-seven Hindoos till they're clean as snow, when you go down in your rummage for the coin that pays, give him more than money payment, give him words of praise. If the dame who does your washing washes passing well, all day long in soap suds sloshing, till the evening bell, show her you've been keeping her words of praise. Nothing stimulates the shaker in this mundane mart, but some praise for willing worker cheers his honest heart; he who toils in weather sunny and on gloomy days, needs a little more than money—needs some words of praise. We're so busy with this guerdon, we might freely give. Sighing 'neath a heavy burden, scores around us live; and that burden we might lighten as we go our ways, and so many pathways brighten, with some words of praise! If the man who shines your brooms shines the best he can, humming cheerily the slogans of the bootblack clean, show him that his course will tickle all right-minded jays; hand him with your pewter nickel, sundry words of praise.
